Elena, the police inspector on the beautiful island of Carloforte, is finally content, alongside Alessandro, her colleague and companion, and their daughter Caterina who they have finally been reunited with.

Yet their happiness is not destined to last. Caterina is with Alessandro in his car when he begins chasing a murder suspect. There is a terrible accident that causes Caterina to lose her eyesight. Elena is unable to forgive Alessandro and they separate. Nonetheless, the two of them continue to see each other every day at work. They are forced to work together on an intriguing double murder case that several of our island characters seem to be involved in, including Ignazio Silas (an entrepreneur suspected of drug trafficking and the father of Vanessa, one of the two women killed), Matteo (Vanessa's boyfriend, she infected him with HIV) and even Alessandro, who it appears had a relationship with the other woman that was killed.

Elena must find the strength to instill courage in her daughter while encouraging her to open her heart to life again, regardless of her handicap, as well as exonerate Alessandro by finding the real killer.
